Streaming All the Way Week 1

Good morning and welcome to church. I hope you got your popcorn!

Thanks again to all of you for being here...Your presence matters!! Our teams work really hard to make this church feel like your church.

Would you guys help me show some love to all of our teams who make Sunday happen??

If you're looking for a place to get plugged in, one of these teams is a great place to start.

I've got a fresh word from God this morning. Who needs a word from the Lord?

We have been looking forward to kicking this brand-new sermon series off called Streaming all the Way.

Christmas movies are the best. Some great classics that we recycle each year. We love the feel-good movies and the make-believe hallmark movies that all end the same.

What we want to do is take some of these movies and sort of redeem them into great life lessons that can apply to us today. We are spending a few weeks combining faith and film to help everyone see and believe in the true meaning of Christmas.

We are kicking off this series with one that it's not old enough to be a classic... This week, we look back almost 30 years to The Santa Clause, starring Tim Allen.

This is a hilarious and heart-warming tale about a father and son trying to make sense of what to believe... about Santa Claus, Christmas, and family itself.

Use clip of movie from 0:03:34-0:06:56

Right from the get-go, the scene is set. There is doubt about whether Santa is real or not.

Maybe that's where you find yourself in this season of life. You have more questions than answers. You aren't sure. There is even some doubt. Not about Santa, but about God.

Let me set the table like this...Your doubts don't disqualify you.

It's easy to think of doubt as a sign of weak faith. But it's not. God isn't afraid of our doubts, so we don't have to be either.
